Council to re-visit commercial site at Gregory/Jefferson

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

At the request of city council member Bill Kristoff, the council tonight will reconsider authorizing a $6,380 traffic study necessary to determine whether to re-zone a parcel of land near Jefferson Blvd. and Gregory Ave. in Southport from residential uses to commercial use.

In July, 1998, the council stalemated with a 2-2 vote on whether to pay for the study. One of the landowners involved, Vince Frugoli, vocally maintained that his property had been "down-zoned" away from its original use and that the city ought to change it back to commercial – and Frugoli has been a major force in the city's last two city council elections.

Jim Cahill, elected to the council in November with Frugoli's endorsement, emphasized yesterday that he was not involved in asking the council to reconsider the traffic study -- although he said he has been "on the record" about wanting to review that land use decision. It is the usual city policy that landowners who ask for a zoning change must foot the bill for studies involved.

"Mr. Kristoff, a few weeks back, asked the staff to bring back something on this," said Cahill. "You'll have to ask him."

Greg Potnick, targeted for removal from office in the past by Frugoli, said the idea set a bad precedent.

"In my estimation, it involves us paying for Vince Frugoli's traffic study because he refuses to pay for it," said Potnick. "If the council approves this, it sets a bad precedent."

Potnick also said the idea of putting a new commercial site that far south in the city appeared contradictory to the goal of keeping traffic off of Jefferson Blvd.

"Many residents railed against the plan of Jefferson going to six lanes," he argued. "Now we're looking at establishing a commercial spot at Jefferson and Gregory. Is somebody going to be looking at six lanes again?"

Kristoff said he hoped to bring the issue back for discussion tonight "and get it off the table one way or the other." Councilman Kristoff, supported in the 1996 election by Frugoli, argued that it was just for the city to foot the bill for the study.

"It was us who made the zoning change, and if we made it back then, we ought to go back and correct it," Kristoff said. "The landowner requested we bring it back for discussion and I said I would try."

ABOUT TOWN:

Julia Harrington: popular businesswoman & activist

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Julia Harrington was raised in the little West Texas town of Mineral Wells.

"I grew up next to the Brazos River, which runs into the Gulf of Mexico," recalled Julia. "My grandparents farmed on one side of the river and ranched on the other. My grandmothers were both very spiritual people and I remember them as being filled with grace. I have very fond memories of growing up in West Texas and the down-to-earth values I learned during those formative years have served me well throughout my life."

When Julia was young, she and her relatives would spend months at a time camping out and fishing along the Brazos River.

"One of my grandfathers was a backwoodsman," remembered Julia, "and although he raised a crop of peanuts most years, he basically supported his family by hunting and fishing. I grew up on catfish and I loved all the time I got to spend out-of-doors. My grandfather couldn't read or write, but he was very smart in a lot of important ways, and that was a good lesson to learn early in life. He was also a great horse trader and once traded a pretty worthless horse for a whole barn."

JULIA HARRINGTON at her 3rd St. shop

At the tender age of only 15, Julia decided she would give marriage a try.

"In West Texas," recalled Julia with a smile, "girls got married when they were very young back then. In my case, it only lasted about four years, but it was another of life's good learning experiences. When I married a second time, it was to a military man and we traveled quite a bit back and forth between Texas and California, where he was stationed. My five children were mostly raised on the cement, but when they became teenagers, I made sure each one of them got back to West Texas so they could see and touch their roots."

Over the years, Julia has spent time counseling abused children, worked with young adults who were confined to juvenile hall, written short stories (one was published in the "Reader's Digest") and run a very successful used furniture business in Orange County, California, but four years ago she made another one of her interesting life changes, and this one brought her to West Sacramento.

"My daughters suggested that I open up a little thrift shop," said Julia, "and as I drove around looking for just the right place, I came across 324 Third Street in Broderick, and I've been here ever since. Small towns close to a river have always been embracing to me, and this area felt like home right away. It has a fascinating history and I'm surrounded by wonderful people. I named my store The Golden Poppy because I was convinced that growth would one day come to this area and I wanted to be able to attract tourists when it did. In the beginning, I sold children's clothes and other thrift store items, but we've continued to grow and now we deal mostly in antiques, collectibles, and costumes. I get a lot of return business and I've been very pleased with how everything has evolved."

As Julia came to better know her neighbors, she soon found herself involved in some of the political issues which were directly affecting their lives.

"We collected hundreds of signatures and were able to save the old firehouse," said Julia, "and now we're organizing to make sure that the city of Sacramento isn't allowed to keep dumping all their problems into

Please see HARRINGTON, p. 7

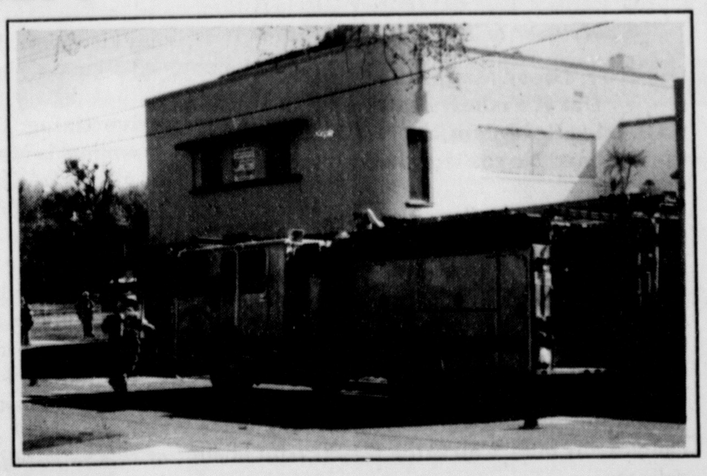
No, it wasn't

YES, THAT WAS a bunch of fire trucks and apparatus outside the old Washington on Third Street Tuesday morning.

Yes, that is the very same 1940-era Art Deco building locals have been working hard to preserve.

Yes, that was a billowing cloud emanating from the firehouse's second floor.

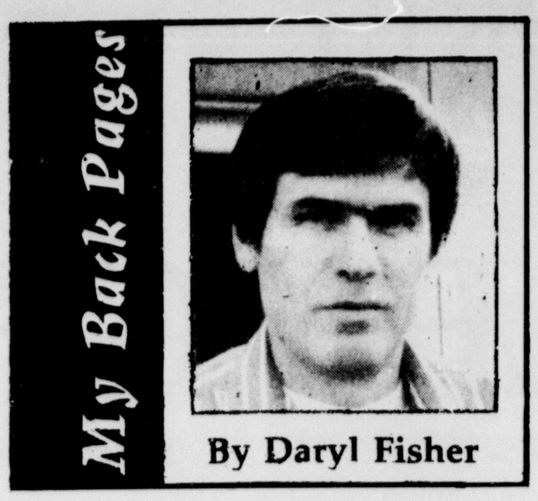
And yes, that was a hose trailing up the side entrance to the second story.



But no, there was no fire and no problem. The West Sacramento Fire Department was merely training in the building with the help of a fog machine, explained spokesperson Jim Medich. New OSHA regulations mandate that any time the fire department sends a couple of people into a burning building, he added, they are required to post a couple of additional personnel outside nearby.

The department was practicing new tactics and was expected to rotate fire crews into the "burning" site throughout the day.

Newspaper headlines are often the best part of the story



Ben Bradlee, the famous former editor of the Washington Post, the award winning daily newspaper which doggedly pursued poor old President Richard Nixon during the Watergate scandal in the early 1970s, recently said, "A news article is only as interesting as its headline." Here are a few (real!) examples of what I think Mr. Bradlee may have had in mind:

Play Ball !! The A's and Giants both opened their 1999 seasons with dramatic come-from-behind victories. The Giants had a bit of good and bad news in their 11-8 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The good news was the two towering home runs by Ellis Burks and Charlie Hayes to seal the win but the bad news was the loss of third baseman Bill Mueller, who was struck by a pitch and broke his toe. The Giants called up Edwards Guzman from their AAA-Fresno team to replace Mueller. The 22 year old left-handed hitting Guzman had a great spring training and was among the last cuts. He hit .305 last season at Fresno.

The A's battled the bad weather Monday night and before a home opening crowd of 46,380 and a national TV audience (ESPN), beat the mighty Yankees 5-3. The Yankees ace, Roger Clemens, was cruising along with an easy victory when Tony Phillips took Clemens deep and the rest is history. The A's will continue their home stand with the Yankees on Tuesday and Wednesday before they travel up north for a four game series with Seattle, starting on Friday, April 9.

After three games in Cincinnati the Giants will return to 3 Com-Park for their home opener on Thursday, April 8 against San Diego. The Giants will host the Padres in a four game series before the Houston Astros come to town on Tuesday, April 13, for a three game series.

Did I forget to mention Mark McGwire hit his first home run of the 1999 season!

The NFL is back in the news as the teams prepare for the upcoming draft on April 17-18 (Live on ESPN). The 1999 NFL season opens on Sept. 12. If your a 49ers fan you may want to mark down on a few interesting dates your calendar. The 49ers home opener is on Sept. 19 against New Orleans but the game of the year will be on Monday night Nov. 29 against their arch-rival, the Green Bay Packers. This season the Niners will host their regular division opponets as well as the Steelers, Oilers, and Redskins.

Across the bay the news wasn't so good. The Oakland Raiders were handed a brutal schedule that has them opening the season in Green Bay followed by a game Sept. 19 in Minnesota before their home opener on Sept. 26 against Chicago. The Raiders will then play Seattle, Denver, at Buffalo, New York Jets, Miami before their bye week on Nov. 7. If they can win a few of these games look for the Raiders in the playoffs!

The Sacramento Kings (14-19), who have lost seven of the past nine games, are down to their last 17 games of the season. The good news is that the Kings will play 12 of their last 16 games at home. Four teams are fighting for the final two playoff spots. The Sonics (16-16) and the Phoenix (15-18) are the teams they need to catch in April if they have any plans for the post season. The Golden State Warriors (14-19) are also in the picture so don't count them out! The Kings travel to Seattle on Tuesday but return on Wednesday night to host the Lakers. This game, which is the biggest ticket in Sacramento, is sold out! The Lakers have received some bad press concerning their two losses to the Kings this season so don't expect them to be very nice. The Kings will have to dig deep for what may be the biggest game season!

If you're interested in attending a Kings game, the West Sac. Aztecs youth soccer team is having a fundraiser by selling tickets ($20) to the Kings games. The Aztecs have 150 seats together for the April 17th game against the Denver Nuggets. Bring your family and friends to a night of Kings basketball! The soccer team gets to keep $4.00 for every ticket sold! Tickets need to be purchased by April 9th. You can help the Aztecs raise $$ by calling team mom, Joyce Novoa, at 372-7332 and reserve your tickets for your family or group!

See ya next week!!

Raiders defeat Dixon

From River City High School

Although they had the week off from classes, members of the River City High School Tennis Team did have some work to do on the courts last week. A spring break match at Dixon was turned into a 8-0 Raider rout as R.C. improved to 13 wins and just 1 loss in 1999.

In the boys matches, seniors Aaron Potnick and Joe Brown earned straight set victories at #1 and #2 singles, respectively. Potnick did not give up a game and Brown filled in nicely for the Raiders usual #2 Khampheng Insixiengmay to earn his first-ever varsity singles win. The lone boys doubles match of the day saw R.C.'s Prak Pich and Huy Truong blast past Dixon's Eric duo, Rubalcaba and Debie, 10-2.

The day's closest call for the visitors came in mixed doubles where the Raider team of Ka Yang and Andy Amphonephong fought back from a 4-7 deficit to squeeze past the Rams 10-9 with a 7 points to 2 tiebreak.

On the girls side of the squad, the doubles teams of Sue Yang and Sokpin Phoung (#1) and Erin Cheechov and Keonakone Lattasima (#2) each won 10-1 yawners, #1 singles player Khonesavanh Lattasima lost just one game and remains undefeated in 1999, and Loan Nguyen triumphed 6-3, 7-5 over Janine Horsley.

This week, classes and practices resume but the next match for River City will not be until April 13 at Mesa Verde. On Thursday, April 15, the Raiders will welcome St. Helena to River City for a matchup of two of the top teams in the Sac-Joaquin Section.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

No sign of anti-stadium lawsuit

There's no word on whether there will be further legal hurdles between West Sacramento and its planned new baseball stadium. The city council rejected several appeals regarding the stadium's approval, including one by a Sacramento attorney representing a handful of Sacramento County clients.

As of this week, there had been no word of any pending lawsuit on the ballpark. But the attorney who has objected to it, John Latini, hasn't returned calls from the News-Ledger.

Thankfully, though, local activist Marna Miller has stepped away from that group of dissidents and withdrawn her objections to the ballpark, deciding that the stadium is a good thing for West Sacramento despite some disagreements over specifics. She is to be commended for this.

Meanwhile, according to one city council member, the city is still awaiting financial statements and other information it says it needs from ballpark promoters before advancing public money to help kick off the construction project. This is as it should be. In this partnership involving public money, the taxpayer should be asked to take only known and reasonable risks.

If the ballpark is built and if the proponents' financial projections are near accurate, the stadium will be a boon to West Sacramento.

In some ways it has already been a boon:

The stadium deal has helped bring a flood of mostly-positive publicity to West Sacramento from throughout the region. And now, local officials report that the Los Angeles Times is preparing a major piece on this city and its attempts at progress.

Stop the crimes!

I am writing because I am concerned about the police department in our community. I know of three incidents where the victim's property was damaged. They knew who did it. The police came and took a report. However, that is as far as it gets. In one case the kids broke in the house and beat two innocent kids. What is a Police Chief for? How can these people always get away with this? This is not about the officers they take the report. But what happens when it gets to administration? It seems once in the office that is about it. They don't want to carry it any farther.

A concerned citizens for this community I have been in for 56 years.

Supporting stadium

An open letter to the leaders of the City of West Sacramento:

We, the undersigned members of Friends of Sacramento County, want to make it clear to everybody that we fully support construction of a Triple-A ballpark on the West Sacramento riverfront. When we made our voices heard in February as citizens of West Sacramento and Sacramento County, it was not with the intent to squash plans for a baseball stadium, but to make sure you read the small print and looked out for taxpayers. That's why we joined Friends of Sacramento County. The developers originally did not address all of our concerns but, due to the tight timelines, we continued to work in good faith. The developers have since gone to great lengths to meet our concerns. If we have been given a true picture, there is nothing left that is so critical that we would jeopardize this deal. We now feel that an adequate deal is in place, in part due to our actions, and that the ballpark would be of less tax payer impact here and more benefit to the region due to surrounding development that will take place simultaneously than any other area.

We recently discovered other members of the Friends of Sacramento County apparently have motivations other than making our community and county a better place to live. They want to disrupt plans for a stadium in West Sacramento and move it to Natomas for purely self-serving reasons, ignoring the obvious benefits to West Sacramento and the riverfront area. They also don't seem concerned with the extensive time, money and effort spent by the city and its citizens in striking this deal.

Maybe this is why no one ever gave us a straight answer to our questions about who is funding Friends of Sacramento County or paying for its proposed lawsuit against the ballpark. When the Friends of Sacramento County first approached us in February, along with attorney John Latini, we thought their intent was to help us help our community make the right decision. But with recent developments, we have to ask what has really motivated organizers of the Friends of Sacramento County. It looks like it was in concert with behind-the-scenes manipulation instead of addressing community concerns or benefiting taxpayers. And we have to ask, was the real reason all along simply getting a ballpark in Natomas or protecting other baseball interests?

We are distancing ourselves in order to make the real financial interests fight it out and not jeopardize this deal since West Sacramento wants the park. From taxpayer's view, there should be no private investments like these taking place. But, from that point of view, this area is the one that would be the best for the region. Building in Natomas, would be like putting a shopping mall in Mayberry. The region benefits most from finally giving a break to West Sacramento.

The citizens and taxpayers have been pitched a well-negotiated deal and we hope the West Sacramento ballpark is a grand slam for the whole region.

Ashamed of our efforts in Balkans

Enclosed is a copy of a letter I have sent President Clinton and our other Federal legislators. I am very, very concerned. I am so ashamed of the horror our military are causing. I hope concerned people will plan to attend a Balkan Teach-In to discuss the situation in the Balkans. I have reserved the Blanchard Room of the Davis branch of the Yolo County Library on Saturday, April 10, at 315 East 14th Street from 4:30 until 7 p.m. (we can stay longer if desired).Please call (530) 756-5010 if you have any questions or comments.

An open letter to President Clinton:

I am dismayed at your decision to order military action in Kosovo. You bring shame to our country. Can you picture what life must be like in the Balkans. Your excuses are without any reason. The richest country in the world wants to settle other people's problems by killing and maiming them. What kind of example do you set? You have chosen to ignore the UN Principles which are a part of international law. You find your solution in ordering much destruction and death.

Why is your action wrong?

It is morally wrong – "Thou shall not kill."

It is illegal – International law, and UN principles.

It will not lead to peace – "There is no way to peace. Peace is the way to peace."

What do I think should be done?

President Clinton apologize to the world, and order that the bombing in the Balkans be stopped and USA troops leave the area.

President Clinton arrange that overdue payment to the United Nations be made.

Convene the Security Council of the UN. Seek non-violent means of solving problems. The US must stop controlling the UN. Negotiations must be sought by the countries involved, the US must let each country, as a member of the UN, work together to find peaceful settlements.

Let there be Peace on Earth!

Rebuttal to defender of 'heroes'

My sincerest appreciation to the writer who expressed he(e)r dismay at "the letter writer"'s opinion of some of America's greatest heroes (Reno, Glenn, et al), thereby proving yet another point. After all, it has long been acknowledged that if you don't have the facts on your side, you simply disparage, poke fun at, belittle, gently chide, et cetera the other side, in order to direct attention away from the weak, or nonexistent case to be made for your viewpoint. A tactic often used by the left in frustration, or "Mean Spiritedness," and the "Enlightened" for amusement.

Since I'm chemically free, or, prescriptionally challenged, one must forgive my somewhat clouded recollection as to whether it was Chairman Mao (or was it "Papa Joe"?), who, in describing American Communists, their sympathizers, and especially their unwitting dupes, called them "Useful Idiots." I guess I should be wary of any unasked for medical advice given at a distance. Especially when a diagnoses is freely given by someone who's apparently hidden their sheepskin in the sheep dip. Or, more plainly, just what are your medical qualifications? (I understand that the diploma mill that apparently was used also offers degrees in remote viewing, as well as the one in psychoanalysis that you must feel you have.) Get my point?

I, on the other hand, shall judge the actual results of actions taken, or not taken, by Reno, et al, and not their good intentions, if any. After all, maybe the Rosenberg's didn't really mean to give they key to mutual annihilation to a butcher such as Joseph "Papa Joe" Stalin. But, they did.

Oh yes, but the way, being paranoid is not a crime, especially if you're right. It's a blessing.

J. BESHARIAN

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento River registered 22 feet 10 inches, U. S. gauge at the S. P. bridge yesterday. The gauge showed last Monday forenoon a reading of 24 feet 6 inches, a reading seldom seen at this time of the year on the Sacramento River gauge. The spinach crop in West Sacto district is practically harvested and that portion which is yet left to be cut will be finished the early part of next week. Grain crops and other crops in the West Sacramento district never looked so good as they do at the present writing. A like statement can be made for the Holland District and in fact along the Sacramento River as far south as Rio Vista. The dry period during the month of March began to show the effects of drought in many sections but the heavy rains since April 1st have brought all crops to a better average than has been seen here for several years. The total rainfall during the month of April is reported to be 6.88 inches, making the seasonal rainfall just a little above normal, or 17.04 inches. The California Cooperative Crop Reporting Service says:

Rainfall was deficient in all parts of California during March. Toward the end of the month pastures and grain fields were showing the effect of the drought in many areas. The generous downpour since April 3 has brought the seasonal rainfall well up toward the normal and with very few exceptions grains and pasture will stage a most wonderful come-back. Temperatures were about normal during the month with no frost severe enough to cause material damage. A generous blossom of the various fruits was quite generally noted and with a few exceptions a good set of fruit is expected. Aside from no precipitation, climatic conditions during March were quite favorable.

Grains—The data which have been embodied in this report for 1926 were collected as of April 1, which was before the very good Easter rain covered the state. The very great benefit from this general rain will no doubt be reflected in grain reports issued from this office in early May.

It must be realized that the prospective crops of wheat, barley and oats in California are very largely dependent on weather conditions during the next few weeks. In various localities and for the state as a whole the planted acreage each year is disposed of in three ways; namely, harvested for grain, harvested for hay, and abandoned for either grain or hay harvest. The method of disposal depends largely on seasonal crop conditions.

Mr. A. A. Hardy and wife, with their two children, have been visitors at the Newman home in Westgate since last Tuesday. Mrs. Hardy is a sister of Mrs. Newman but the Hardy family has its regular home in Fresno where Mr. Hardy fills an important position with the Standard Oil Company.

Considerable repair is being done to the County Highway leading from the M Street bridge to Westgate and southward along the road to Jefferson Blvd. which leads to Clarksburg. The work is being done by the County highway gang under the direction of County Engineer Proctor and under the supervision of County Supervisor Buckingham. The very heavy traffic which now uses this highway in getting the spinach crop to the cannery is responsible for a good deal of the necessary repairs. Very heavy trucks heavily laden with loads of green produce follow each other on this road on their way to the canneries in an unending stream and when the entire district is placed under cultivation it should be one of the best producing districts in the country. A great deal of produce raised in the Lisbon district and in the Holland district, also, finds its way to market along this roadway with the result that frequent repairs are necessary. The grade leading from this road to cross the San Francisco-Sacramento tracks has been leveled and the great chuck holes have been filled so that the roadway is now safe for autoists. The roadway under the subway at the foot of Fifth street has also been repaired and the bad chuck holes which prevailed there for some time past have been obliterated. Some work has also been done by the San Francisco-Sacramento Short Line track crew at the crossings at Westgate and that above mentioned, placing the road in a very fine state of repair.

Mrs. A. F. Nickell has returned to her home in Westgate after a visit with relatives in Kansas of several weeks' duration. Mrs. Nickell reports that the storms in the eastern states during her visit there were very severe and she was very glad to gt back to California. A joyful welcome received her at her home, especially her husband and son, Richard, being glad to have her back to attend to the housekeeping.

Plans for the school to be erected in the Westgate District or between Westgate and Carly Acres have been completed by the architects, George Sellon & Co., of Sacramento. The trustees, however, have hopes that the plans will be finished in a few days and as soon as these are finished the specifications will accompany them so that contractors may have an opportunity to offer bids for the work. A great many San Francisco-Sacramento contractors are anxious for an opportunity to bid on the construction of the school and have been making inquiries of the Independent in relation thereto.

Hamon Hutchinson was a visitor with his family in Westgate last week. He has been making his home in Glenn and may be joined there very last night in Stockton where he had some important business affairs to look after.

H. R. Pearson, a part owner of the West Sacramento Auto Camp, has returned here from his home in Watsonville where he spent some time visiting his family. Because a great deal of work has been done in the auto camp, Mr. Pearson expects to remain here for some time now.

On the S. P. bridge at the sharp turn near I street in Sacramento an auto driver escaped with his life yesterday morning just in time and in a miraculous way. A great truck load of spinach from the Bryte district was on its way to a Sacramento cannery. The driver of the load made the turn too sharply with the result that the big crates keeled over, falling on top of an automobile going in the opposite direction. A mess of spinach was scattered all over the bridge and everyone passing that way took advantage of the occasion to get a mess. The top of the automobile going in the opposite direction was smashed to ribbons and splinters but the driver was not hurt.

Tom Maxwell, an employe of the Federal Government engaged in the capacity of securing evidence against blindpiggers, who has been making his home in the West Sacramento Auto Camp during the past few months, has been moved to a new field of endeavor and is now snooping around the Hutchison Lumber company north of Oroville. Maxwell lived on the fat of the land while in this locality but he was so well known to the bootleggers that his work here was more or less ineffective.

M. E. Huck, arrested on complaint of Roscoe Felts on April 8th for cruelty to animals, appeared in Judge Barry's court on April 10th and was fined $50 for having killed one valuable dog owned by Felts and wounding another. From the evidence produced at the trial it appears that Huck was passing along the levee between Rose Orchard and Carly Acres. Felts' dogs were in the yard of Felts' premises but barked at Huck who was outside of the fence. Drawing a large caliber revolver, Huck fired two shots, killing one dog and wounding the other. Judge Barry sentenced Huck to pay a fine of $50 or spend fifty days in the county jail. He paid the fine.

H. L. Russell was arrested by Game Warden W. J. Green on April 11th near Babel Slough for having in his possession 35 sunfish out of season. On April 14th he appeared before Judge Barry and pleaded guilty. He made claim that owing to poverty he was forced to resort to catching fish for his family and on that account Judge Barry assessed a fine of only $20 on him.

The service station being erected by Jack Reuther on Third street across from the town hall and at the intersection of Elizabeth street is about ready to start service. Reuther believes he will be able to open the station on next Monday and will have it in such condition at that time that it will be able to furnish a first class service. Three very modern pumps are to be used in the station. All the appliances like an air compressor, a water supply, and other requisites of modern stations will be installed. Reuther may subsequently add a line of accessories but so far has not decided definitely on doing that.

Mrs. P. E. Medlin of the West Sacramento district has been in a Sacramento hospital during the past ten days suffering severely as a result of an automobile accident at Third and P streets. For a time it was believed that Mrs. Medlin was not seriously hurt yet she suffered considerable pain and it was only when an X-Ray examination was made that it was found her pelvic bone was fractured in three places. Word from her bedside yesterday went to show that she was improving rapidly.

BUS LINE SERVICE WILL START ABOUT MAY 2D TO WASHINGTON

Permission granted by the State Railroad Commission for the establishment of a bus service between Sacramento and Washington and Westgate has been received by the owners of the bus line, Joe and Victoria Misetich.

Preparations are now being made by them to start the service and for a start they will use two seven-passenger automobiles but later will use a large bus capable of holding forty people.

The service will be half-hourly, starting at Fifth and I Streets at the Union Station, thence to L, along L to Second, thence along Second to the S. P. bridge, thence westward to Fifth street and south to the subway, thence to Westgate and return to the Southern Pacific bridge to reach the point of beginning along I Street.

The fare to Washington will be 5 cents and to Westgate 11 cents.

DOG LICENSES TO BE ISSUED BY JUDGE BARRY

Following the enactment of a county dog license by the board of supervisors of Yolo County, it will be necessary for all owners of dogs in the county to procure licenses for the animals and register them with the justice of the peace in each township.

This action was taken by the supervisors following the loss of many head of sheep and lambs in the western side of the county through vicious dogs.

The license fee for each animal is 50 cents and the penalty for refusing or failing to register is death of the animal by the authorities or someone who will be appointed by the supervisors for that purpose.

FINES OF $100 ARE PAID FOR POSSESSION OF LIQUOR

In Judge Barry's court last Monday afternoon Carl Lindquist and A. Lenci paid $100 each when they pleaded guilty to possession of liquor.

Their places, one in the West Sacramento district and one in Washington, had been raided on Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Monroe, Deputy Sheriff Marty and two federal officers, Shurtleff and McCoy.

At the Lindquist home a small quantity of liquor, about two ounces, was found on the premises. At the Lenci home a larger quantity was found and confiscated.

Appearing before Judge Barry on Monday at 2 p. m. both accused parties confirmed their pleas of guilty and were each fined $100, which was paid, and the accused dismissed.

The story written by a Woodland paper on this question shows in what light the Woodland papers regard this section of Yolo County.

Just as a sample of what an imaginative individual can concoct in a vicious and fertile brain a few paragraphs from a Woodland paper are taken to show the spite those people have toward this section of Yolo County.

Here are the few paragraphs:

With the cry of "the bulls are coming" early last evening, habitues of the Broderick boathouse district along the levee began emptying their humble shacks of everything that contained illicit liquor until, according to those interested in a raid which netted three of the notorious bootleggers and distillers of Westgate and Broderick sections, the river was veritably alive with bobbing bottles, small casks and cans, believed to have contained every concoction of the blind pig element of the "Long Beach" area between the two bridges out of Yolo County into Sacramento.

Shurtleff, who is co-operating with Monroe, and who according to the local officer is one of the hardest working federal officers ever in this district, discovered that eastern Yolo County was alive with stills, illicit liquor and bootleggers. Shurtleff, co-operating closely with Monroe, only entered those places, however, where it was certain that cases could be made out against those arrested. Monroe declares that he has received more co-operation through Shurtleff's office than any other federal agent operating out of Sacramento. It is claimed that the combination of county and federal offices will sooner or later clear up the entire county. Woodland is not immune.

Isleton, April 14.—Progress in the plans and arrangements of the second annual asparagus festival to be held in this city was announced today by C. W. Flodin. The festival is to be presented under the auspices of California Asparagus Festival association on May 15 and 16.

FILLING AT M STREET BRIDGE GOES ALONG SLOWLY

The dredger Neptune is still taking sand from the Sacramento River bed just north of the M street bridge and depositing it on the levee to be moved westward to fill the grade for the new roadway that is to be built as one of the western entrances to Sacramento.

Contractor Tucker, who is in charge of the work and holds a contract, was deceived to some extent when he believed that the sand from the river bed could be moved westward a distance of three or four blocks by water flushing.

The trough built to convey the sand westward has been removed except for a short distance near the levee because it was found impractical in conveying the sand westward to the point desired.

As a substitute the sand is now being deposited near the end of the bridge and is being dragged by an endless cable to the low places where it is needed.

Some teams are also being used with Fresno scrapers to move the sand close up to the entrance to the M street bridge.

The work progresses slowly and it is barely possible may not be finished in the time specified in the contract.

SACRAMENTO NORTHERN TO COMPLETE YOLO BRANCH

San Francisco, April 10.—The Sacramento Northern Railway was given an extension by the Interstate Commerce Commission today until November 1, 1927, to complete the construction of a line in Yolo and Solano counties.

The proposed branch is from Lisbon station to Clarksburg, Sacramento county.

CHECK ARTIST HELD BY SACRAMENTO POLICE FOR TRIAL

Jack Hart, alias W. H. Hart, alias John Bond, is in the Sacramento city jail having been detected in Sacramento by George Kline of the firm of Kline & Hauser, wholesale butchers.

Bond, or Hart, or whatever his name may be, manipulated several fraudulent checks, which he managed to pass because they were drawn by the butchering firm.

He passed a check for $12.00 on Mrs. Roberts at the West Side Camp grocery, another for $25 on George Beale, another for a small amount on the Fulton Market at Fourth and M streets, another on the California Meat Market at 716 J street, and on other places of business.

Kline detected Hart in Sacramento and followed him, knocking him down and holding him until the police wagon was called.

He has not yet been placed on trial.

BOOSTERS' CLUB OFFERS SUPPORT TO BUS SERVICE

At the meeting of the Washington Boosters' club last Tuesday evening in the town hall a motion was made and carried that it be the sense of the club that all the possible patronage that could be extended by the members to the new bus service would be offered when the service was established.

Matters of other consequence took the time of the club members but owing to shortage of space the Independent cannot publish them in this issue.

our backyard. People have felt powerless in the past to stop Sacramento from damaging our community, but that is changing, and we are determined to have safe, drug-free streets again."

As well as being politically active in her community, Julia is very knowledgeable of West Sacramento's history. She recently commissioned a monumental mural entitled "Washington Riverfront 1909" by local artist Marleen Hoffman and it is proudly mounted above the entrance of The Golden Poppy.

"The mural is West Sacramento's history showing itself," wrote Julia. "It belongs to the people and is intended to exemplify West Sacramento's unified pride in its past and future development."

"Julia is very community minded," said Lana Paulhamus, a longtime local political activist who shares many of Julia's hopes for old Broderick. "She is dedicated to improving the quality of life in her community and cleaning up those areas that need it. She's a grassroots person and a real mover and shaker, and West Sacramento is lucky to have her. She also stays on top of issues and is not afraid to speak her mind. She's made a real difference in her community and she should be very proud of that."

"I come from a family of pioneering Christian women and I have always been able to draw strength from my faith," said Julia. "I also learned early in life the importance of community and roots. I still own land near the river where I grew up and I would never think of selling or harming it, and that is the same way a lot of people who have lived here all their lives feel about old Broderick. There's almost a spirituality to old river towns and I truly enjoy living and working here. I live right above my store, in the old Rueter building, and like my neighbors are always telling me, I've got the only penthouse in West Sacramento!"

In addition to Julia's five children, she also has 12 grandchildren (9 boys and 3 girls) and two great-grandchildren (one of each).

Your Medicine Cabinet

(NAPS)—A well-kept medicine chest protects children two ways:

1. It provides the medicines they need.
2. It's arranged and secured so they don't take drugs they're not supposed to have.

Keep a thermometer in your medicine chest, but don't put a mercury bulb in a child's mouth. Take the armpit temperature and add a degree.

Keep: aspirin for grown-ups, a non-aspirin painkiller for children (who can become seriously ill from taking aspirin), syrup of ipecac (to induce vomiting in cases of poisoning when directed), a stomachache reliever, bandages, a thermometer, tweezers, first-aid ointment (use even on the smallest cuts) and cough and cold medicines.

Once the cabinet is stocked, it should be locked so curious youngsters can't try what's inside. Just in case, keep the number of your pediatrician and the poison control board handy.

These hints may help you keep your youngsters happy and healthy.

The first woman to hold the office of chief of protocol in the U.S. Department of State was former child star Shirley Temple Black in 1976.

Nominations close Friday for health awards

Friday, March 19 marked the opening of this year's nomination process for the 10th annual John H. Jones Public Service and the 7th annual Ada Merhoff Volunteer awards. The two tributes are sponsored jointly by the Yolo County Medical Society and the Yolo County Health Council to acknowledge local health care professionals and volunteers for their outstanding contribution to the health and welfare of low-income residents of Yolo County.

The John H. Jones Public Service Award was established and initially presented in 1990 to Dr. Jones, founder of CommuniCare Health Centers which includes the Davis Community Clinic. This prestigious honor recognizes professionals in the health field who have dedicated themselves to improving access and quality of care for those individuals of limited means. Physicians, dentists, physician assistants, and nurses or other Yolo County practitioners are eligible candidates.

The Ada Merhoff Volunteer Award was created in 1993 in honor of longtime local activist and first recipient, Ada Merhoff. It recognizes the efforts of local health care advocates and volunteers who have devoted themselves to increasing access to health care for this area's low-income population. Nominations must be in written form and include the candidate's:

Name, address and phone number; Brief biography; Local health care contributions and activities; and any other relevant information.

Those submitting nominations must also include their name, address and a local phone number at which they can be reached for verification. The nomination process will close Friday, April 9. Nominations must be postmarked on or before that date and mailed to Yolo County Health Council, c/o Yolo County Health Department, 10 Cottonwood Street, Woodland, CA 95695.
